

Asoka's Story.

Nestled in the rugged beauty of Medawachchiya, in the heart of Sri Lanka's arid region, Palugollewa lives Asoka Priyakanti, a woman whose tenacity and determination turned her dreams into reality. From her humble beginnings to her success as a corn farmer, Asoka's story is a testament to the transformative power of her opportunity and hard work.

Born and raised in Palgollewa, Asoka's path to farming began with the support of her JSB project, which was generously funded by the Japanese government. With technical assistance from UNDP and social mobilization from Janatakshan GTE Ltd, Ms. Asoka received her 7.5 kg of maize seeds. This is a small but important step towards her dream.

Undeterred by the challenges of living in an arid region, Asoka set about cultivating one hectare of land. She grew her plants with diligence and determination and used the project's support to overcome obstacles and ensure optimal growth. Despite the difficult conditions, their efforts bore fruit, with a bumper harvest of 2,000 kilograms of corn. A defining moment in Asoka's journey came when she transported her harvest to a poultry feed processing center funded by her JSB project. Through shrewd negotiation and unwavering commitment, she secured a lucrative deal and earned Rs 240,000. This is a testament to her hard work and dedication.

Encouraged by her own success, Asoka dreams of expanding her land and using her project's support to cultivate more acres and increase yields. With each additional harvest, she moves closer to her vision of prosperity and self-sufficiency. Although Ahsoka is married, she feels a deep sense of responsibility towards her family as she lives with her father and mother.

Her story of Ahsoka is an inspiration to others in the community and shows the transformative power of opportunity and perseverance. Looking to the future with her optimism and determination, Asoka remains true to her journey, driven by her passion for agriculture and her vision for a better future.
