

Nurturing Empowerment: The Success Story of the Feed Processing Centre

Introduction:

In the heart of Rotawewa, Trincomalee District, Sri Lanka, a remarkable transformation is taking place—one driven by the unwavering determination and collaborative efforts of four inspiring women. Janaki Prasangika, Anoma Kumuduni, Sandya Kumari, and Sunethra Premalatha have embarked on a journey to empower themselves and their community through the establishment of a Feed Processing Centre. This initiative, made possible by the JSB project funded by the Japanese government with technical support from UNDP and social mobilization efforts by Janathakshan Gte Ltd, is not only ensuring sustainable income but also fostering entrepreneurship and women's empowerment.

Seeding Growth:

The vision for the Feed Processing Centre was born out of a desire to address the needs of poultry farmers in Trincomalee District. Recognizing the importance of access to quality feed for poultry production, the JSB project distributed 1000 chicks to the region, laying the foundation for a thriving poultry industry. However, the lack of affordable and accessible feed posed a significant challenge. To address this gap, the Feed Processing Centre was established on January 3rd, 2024, equipped with essential machinery such as a grinder, mixer, and pellet machine.

Overcoming Challenges:

In the early days, the Centre faced numerous challenges, including a lack of market awareness and limited knowledge of feed formulation. However, with perseverance and support from the project, the women of the Centre underwent training and received guidance on feed rationing. Armed with newfound knowledge and skills, they began producing high-quality chick starter feed and grower feed, laying the groundwork for success.

Growth and Expansion:

As the Centre gained traction in the market, demand for their products soared. To meet this growing demand, the women of the Centre diversified their offerings, establishing an outlet to sell not only feed but also eggs, curd, milk toffee, and chicks' medicine. Their entrepreneurial spirit and commitment to quality have earned them a loyal customer base, with each member earning nearly 5,000 rupees per month—a testament to the transformative power of empowerment and entrepreneurship.

Paving the Way for Progress:

The Feed Processing Centre is more than just a business—it is a beacon of hope and progress in the community. By providing access to affordable and nutritious feed, it is fueling the growth of the local poultry industry and empowering women to take charge of their economic futures. With their unwavering determination and commitment to excellence, Janaki, Anoma, Sandya, and Sunethra are not only setting new standards for feed processing but also inspiring a new generation of female entrepreneurs.

Conclusion:

The success of the Feed Processing Centre stands as a testament to the power of collaboration, determination, and empowerment. Through the support of the JSB project and the tireless efforts of Janaki, Anoma, Sandya, and Sunethra, what began as a humble initiative has blossomed into a thriving enterprise that is transforming lives and communities. As they continue to innovate and expand their reach, the Centre will undoubtedly serve as a model of empowerment and entrepreneurship for years to come, paving the way for a brighter and more prosperous future for all.
